

Koh Chang Weather.

The Climate and Seasons on the Island.

What is the weather like on Koh Chang?

Statistically, the weather and climate on Koh Chang can be summed up as:

- The driest months are from November to March. This is High Season and is the best time to visit Koh Chang.
- On average, the temperatures are always high i.e. over 30C during the daytime year round
- March and April are the hottest months on Koh Chang
- January is the coolest month
- January is also the driest month of the year
- September usually has the worst weather
- The rainy season is from May to October
- The air quality can be poor in January & February (AQI of 100 – 200 is possible on certain days)
-

January.

The weather on Koh Chang in January is usually sunny. Visitors can expect an average of 9 hours sunshine per day. With average high temperatures of 31C and night time lows of 20C. January is a dry month with an average of 3 days with some light rain, around 20mm or so. The average sea temperature in January is 27C.

February.

The weather on Koh Chang in February is usually sunny. Visitors can expect an average of 9 hours sunshine per day. With average high temperatures of 33C and night time lows of 21C. February is a dry month with an average of 5 days with some light rain, around 50mm or so. The average sea temperature in February is 28C.

March.

The weather on Koh Chang in March is usually sunny but expect a day or two with a rain shower. Visitors can expect an average of 9 hours sunshine per day. With average high temperatures of 33C and night time lows of 23C. March is quite a dry month with an average of 7 days with some light rain, around 90mm or so. The average sea temperature in March is 29C.

April.

The weather on Koh Chang in April is sunny but with some overnight thunderstorms. But visitors can expect an average of 9 hours sunshine per day. With average high temperatures of 33C and night time lows of 24C. It can be very humid at night. You will experience some rain in April. There's an average of 9 days with rainfall. Around 120mm or so. The average sea temperature in April is 30C.

May.

May is the start of the rainy season, so the weather on Koh Chang in May will be much wetter than April. Visitors can expect an average of 8 hours sunshine per day. With average high temperatures of 31C and night time lows of 24C. The number of days with rain will outnumber dry days with an average of 20 days with rain and 350mm total rainfall. The rainy season usually begins some time during the middle of May. The average sea temperature in May is 30C.

June.

The weather on Koh Chang in June is usually quite wet, although visitors can expect around 7 hours of sunshine a day. But skies are often cloudy. Average high temperatures of 30C and night time lows of 23C. June is a wet month with an average of 23 days with some rain and a total of 550mm rainfall for the month. Heavy rain is usually at night or very early morning, rather than during the day time. The average sea temperature in June is 29C.

July.

The weather on Koh Chang in July is usually quite wet, although visitors can expect around 7 hours of sunshine a day. But skies are often cloudy. Average high temperatures of 30C and night time lows of 23C. July is a wet month with an average of 21 days with some rain and a total of 550mm rainfall for the month. Heavy rain is usually at night or very early morning, rather than during the day time. Afternoons and evenings are usually dry. The average sea temperature in July is 28C.

August.

The weather on Koh Chang in August is very similar to July. With quite a lot of rain but around 7 hours of sunshine a day. Average high temperatures of 30C and night time lows of 23C. August is a wet month with an average of 23 days with some rain and a total of 550mm rainfall for the month. Heavy rain is usually at night or very early morning, rather than during the day time. The average sea temperature in August is 27C.

September.

September usually has the worst weather of the year. There's more chance of floods and storms than at any other time. Although there are still plenty of sunny days and an average of 6 hours sunshine per day. Average high temperatures of 29C and night time lows of 22C. It rains on average on 22 days of the month during September, with a total of 550mm rainfall for the month. Heavy rain is usually at night or very early morning, rather than during the day time. The average sea temperature in September is 27C.

October.

The weather on Koh Chang in June is still wet but now improving as the rainy season comes to an end. Expect around 7 hours of sunshine a day. But skies are often cloudy. Average high temperatures of 30C and night time lows of 23C. How wet October is varies quite a lot year by year. It depends when the rainy season ends. Sometimes this is in the middle of the month, sometimes at the end or in early November. Figure on an average of 20 days with some rain and a total of 300mm rainfall for the month. Heavy rain is usually at night or very early morning, rather than during the day time. The average sea temperature in October is 29C.

November.

The weather on Koh Chang in November is usually sunny. The prevailing winds change direction and blow from the north which signals the end of the rainy season. Visitors can expect an average of 9 hours sunshine per day. With average high temperatures of 30C and night time lows of 21C. November is a often a very dry month with just a few rainy days and an average rainfall of 50mm. The average sea temperature in November is 27C.

December.

The weather on Koh Chang in December is usually sunny but cool in the evenings due to the north wind . Visitors can expect an average of 9 hours sunshine per day. There may be some cloudier days due to tropical storms passing from the Philippines towards the south of Thailand. Koh Chang usually doesn't get any rain from the storms, just some cloud for a day or two as the storm passes. Average high temperatures of 30C and night time lows of 20C. December is a dry month with an average of 3 days with some light rain, around 30mm or so. The average sea temperature in December is 27C.